DEDICATION

MISS LONA BELL SPRUIELL

Oh there she is in Wichita High
The cheeriest gal you ever did spy,
She's genial and sparkling
And makes most fun
In classes at school
Where 't isn't usually done.

She dashes about with vim and zest
With a line of talk that is the best
That's been heard here
In many a day.
With a lilt of her voice
She turns work into play.

She's liting and pretty and dresses in blue.
She has dancing eyes so clear and so true
They sparkle and twinkle
And look right through you
Until you decide
To do the right thing, just as you should do.

And now this young lady we've praised to the skies
Is smiling right at you.
Just look in her eyes
And drink of her wisdom.
She certainly has added to our education;
So here's to her, our thirty-two dedication.

F O R E W O R D

As cowboys of old did their work to song,
We thought we'd try to fashion a book
With Indians and cowboys and pioneer folk
Who covered the Southwest with their picturesque work.
Sometimes the idea is stampeded away
Into the school, which is both work and play;
And things seem so new we forget the claims
Of the people who worked to develop the plains.

As Indians we chase the dear learning so rare
And scalp it and leave it—just give it the air.
As cowboys we rope, bulldog, and tie
All the learning we can in the twink of an eye.
We speed through the land like the pony express
But not on one horse power, you'll readily guess.
We're going somewhere, thanks to pioneers so dear;
And hardships, like cactus, we crush without fear.

So just for the fun of a trip, we'll go through
One year of our school life, nineteen thirty-two.

As one rides along on Avenue H
In snowy winter and in crispy spring
He sees this place of learning
Forever yearning, yearning
To teach the youth about most everything.

The quiet, restful beauty is sensed by passers-by;
The art and sculptured treasures please the eye;
For in its spacious halls,
And upon its plastered walls
Are art pieces rare whose beauties make one sigh.

With poplar trees and ivied walls
Our house and campus grows and thrives;
And in the house of green
Plants and flowers may be seen
That fill with gracious beauty all our lives.

In the evening when the sun's rays
Cast their shadows o'er our campus,
We look back to spacious doors,
To the building that is ours,
And know that work done there will bless us.

Fer he's the boss o' this here range an' runs the business square.
Checkin' the herd, inspectin' the brands an' the riders everywhere.
An' I've got a sort o' notion he knows lots what ain't in books.
Them twinklin' eyes, so kind an' wise—you bet I like his looks.

An' Rider, that's the foreman—the same as makes the rounds

To see that all the mavericks runnin' wild about the grounds
Is roped and branded fair an' square, ready fer round-up time

To hit the trail from W. F. H. S. sleek an' in their prime.

But A. K. Presson, he's the feller that's up to all the tricks.
He keeps our pedigrees and sich. An' when you're in a fix,
You go right in to see him. He's as true an' fine as steel,
An' you leave there mighty certain that you'll git an' honest deal.

A BALLAD OF LEARNING

When I was a lad in the great Southwest an' my pappy sent me to school,
So they'd learn me to make a livin', an' I needn't grow up a fool,
Right whar the coyotes wuz howlin' in the schoolhouse's very halls;
That's whar I wuz eddicated, down in Wichita Falls.
The W. F. H. S. wuz a purty range, plenty o' grass an' a swell corral,
Them lombardy poplars pointin' up—oh, we loved it an' always shall,
But I want as you-all should listen while I recite the fame
O' the punchers that herded and branded us. I'll call 'em all by name.

Times wuz when I knowed my lesson, but Miss Kelly knowed thet stuff;
I couldn't ketch her eye a-tall; she'd wait 'till I tried to bluff.
Chella Hendrick wuz good at writin' an' spinnin' yarns 'bout Buffalo Bill;
She'd fire our imaginations an' make our hearts stand still,
Same as I reckon the reason Miss Collins alluz seemed to understand,
'Cause she lives in God's own country, down by the Rio Grande.

When a guy had flunked his English and was feelin' down and out,
After talkin' all things over, Spruiell never left a doubt.
Louise Lipscomb knowed her classics, an' she knowed the herd's I. Q.
An' alluz give 'em easy tests that the dumbest critters knew.
When Miss Savage taught our lesson she would paint us pictures gay
Of the dashin', darin' cowboys as they galloped far away.
Now Belle Tibbets done her darndest to make our west more tame;
Them cowpunchers doffed sombreroes and curtsied to this dame.
"Parlevous Francais" the French maid asked. Us mavericks couldn't savvy that;
We jest looked wise and smiled "toot sweet" at little Miss Melat.
At the feet of Perfesser Presson I sure set and drunk my fill
Of sonnets and love songs a-plenty, which give my heart a thrill.

When ye counted up yore money, and ye'd find yore cash was short
Then ye's know ye hadn't studied as J. N. Hall said ye ort.
Now Lona Betty in her class sung of arms an' a man o' war,
But my mind wux roamin' the rollin' plains and I didn't git very far.
When the sandstorms wuz a-ragin' and the northers blowin' cold
Senora Gilbert longed for Chili, a la Mexican, I wuz told.
I knowed enuff Spanish fer a greaser to savy, Manana's the motto by which I go;
But some takes it serious, even sashays like Miss McCulloch, into old Mexico.
Miss Zihlman teachd us Espanol and formed a circulo,
When we could say "Mande Ud." her face was all aglow.
While Miss Davis teachd Castilian, I didn't reach first base,
Only barely learned the meanin' of "vaquero," "pes," and "mes."

Dissectin' frogs, boilin' cats, chasin' horny toads an' bats.
Skinnin' possums, picklin' snakes, discussin' human ills an' aches,
Mountin' butterflies an' bees, pressin' leaves of all the trees,
Scoutin' all around the town fer Lena McKee an' 'Lizabeth Brown—
While Falls an' me together roam the prairies broad and free.
E'en the dustiest weed had meaning as he told the names to me.
Mrs. Roy J. Daniel with needle and thread, patterns an' pots an' pans,
Teached the heifers to sew up duds an' cook frijolie beans fer the han's.
To scan the books of nature as the seasons turn the leaves
An' impervise the balanced ration is whut Lela Tomlinson believes.
That's the kind of learnin' I think every gal should treasure;
They never burn no biskits if they heed Miss Sadie Fraser.

Whar the cattle, hoot-owl, and prairie dog reign, and rattle snakes are thick as the sage,

E. S. Bolton learned us history, tracin' man from his earliest age
Miz Witherspoon alluz wuz happy and the life of anyone's gang,
Travelin' 'round on steamers or camels, or ridin' a wild mustang.

Miss Humphrey was good to her classes, in more ways than I can name;
And when we have reunions, all the fellers will tell you the same.

Mathis wa'nt a Texas cowboy, but he knowed their hist-o-ry
And cud sing their deeds of valor, same as Poker Bill or me.

He even knowed the very date the Hellespont was swum—

Mis Ryan give me the book to read,—them old timers sure went some.

I'd sit in that "lib" with Natalie Gorin, browsing in books of ancient lore,
My thoughts runnin' wild as stampeding steers, a-picturin' rodeos of yore.

Now let me warn you good and proper consarnin' Lindsey, Charlie,—
"No bluffin' tenderfeet fer me, I shore don't like to parley."
But if you love to juggle and conjure with the figgers,
Pauline Shirley's heaps of fun; she jest craves the diggers.
Mebbe the range is a trifle o'erstocked, but there's alluz plenty o' room at the top:
So Henderson needn't worry, for he sure has got the drop.
Way up in higher 'rithmetic and awful complicated sums,
Some fellers pass a term or more with good ol' Jake Willums.
And now for a true bold son of the vanishing golden West,
I figger, probably, Mr. Webb fits that place the best.
It's nature thet some critters has a vast appeal to wimmin'
Like Bill Morris, who gits the cream while others gits the skimmin'.

I'm sure that Miss McConnell knows her algebra. It's strange
But pi-r-square don't worry me, when I'm dreamin' of the range.
"Life's like drawin'," sez Mr. Bunch, "it's all a matter of line.
Straight and true, my lad," sez he; "then everything is fine."
I made maw the purtiest table; Mr. Hornung showed me how.
It's settin' in the parlor, all bright and shiny, now.
When I hear the keys a-tappin' in the old typewriting room,
And Miss Wilbanks plays a record to keep 'em all in tune,
An' Miss Owens takes a timepiece and judges in the race,
Them hands are all a-flyin' at an unbelievin' pace.

You couldn't wonder, fer my teacher wuz Missus Eleanor Pace.
And when we wandered off the range and spent a day in court,
Miss Friend, she herded us along. I tell you that wuz sport.
Miss Raborn studied fur an' near and travelled on a furrin' strand,
An' when it comes to governmint, us fellers think she's grand.
No eddication is complete 'thout physics or chemistry course,
And 'Fesser Richardson's experiments fully taught me force.
But fer critters whut find somethin' fine and purty in each part
Of all that is around us, I jest can't help but take Miss Pendergrass to heart.

Puts pep an' ginger in ye an' is the makin' of the man.

When McCarty's band played "The Old Gray Mare," they held that line, I vum!
Once us tenderfeet wuz shrinkin', fainted at the sight of gore;
Since Frazee put us into trainin', we alluz look fer more.

Edith Long is an excellent student of life;
She wonders why Brooksie stays out of the strife.
Theda Ramee and Florence B. Stallings belong
To Aspiration, inspiration not yet very strong.
Evaletta carries on an interesting conversation,

Tommy's always willing and will never have a care,
Hortense is mostly happy and will be anywhere.

 Lorene is a flighty young miss, we must say,
 But Annette is her opposite in every way.
 Beeson and Bennett, our bookkeeping pals,
 Stand always together, except with their gals.
 Margaret is ever so sweet and so kind,
 And Helen is dark and brunette—in our line.
 Joe is an all-round good fellow, we know,
 And Marguerite will make good, she works at it so.
 But Alta Mae and Hazel, 'tis sad to relate,
 May be headed fast for a different fate.

Gerald Brookman is the man with the infectious smile and gorgeous red hair.
 Elva Bell Brown, with Lawrence, we think, would make a nice pair.
 June Bruce should have lived in the days before Columbus;
 She'd have discovered America with ease—"Gloriundus."
 Rural, rollicking Bernice pulls through civics without a cane.
 And Maline Buchanan, who wouldn't run after a boy—she wouldn't dare,
 Reminds us of Herbert. If he lost a debate, he would simply rare.
 Joking, jolly Joan keeps all the boys in a stew,
 Marvellous, magnificent Madge has a weakness for preachers, too.
 Look out! the Campbells are coming—Eddie and Kathryn and Nann;
 What nobody else would do (or could do) they can.

Blanche is a swell little girl but awfully shy;
And, gee, there's Allen—we couldn't pass him by;
I reckon if Mary Leona went away he'd simply die,
As I 'spect th' way Albert and Francis'd do if their angels passed 'em by.
Paul's Francis' brother, but he ain't responsible, entirely,
And he's been wishing for a girl friend, direly, direly, direly,
Pauline and Velma, maybe they wanta boy friend too,

H. R. at his football is certainly not yellow—

Elizabeth—there is a blonde and a swell dame,
 Emma is athletic—seeking no fame.
 Jayne is a sophisticate—forgets even duty—
 But Nell is above all our girls in her beauty.
 R. K., with his curly black hair, is amusing,
 And Sallie is friendly, to all she is charming.
 Virginia's ace is her beautiful coloring,
 And Winnie, the last of these Smiths, is indulging.
 Lucille is talented, friendly, and true;
 And Orilea is quite a honey—are you?
 That Souther guy, Bob, is a pal who's worth knowing,
 While Margaret's talents and pep get you going.

Lauretta is pretty but kinda plump,
At Ruth's sweet voice you will feel like a chump—
Eugenia Staber and sister, Kathleen,
And Vergie Mae Stearman will be someone's queen.
Gussie Lee's black eyes and lipstick bright,
Are not like Athalie's, but they're both all right.
Now, staid Clifford Tinsley's quiet, and say,
Did you notice Frances' hair's nearly gray?
Elizabeth at playing the flute is a whiz,
And in public speaking—Kinsey says she is.
Now, Farrell's hair is dark and Marian is some gal;
Each would make another quite some pal.

Charles is its death—but we hope some day he'll pass;
Malcolm's awfully good-looking, but shy, somebody has said,
And Miss Daisy Wade's also pretty, and has a crop o'red.
James Lee causes our 'lil Emogene to somehow throw a fit;
While, if ya know Miss Grace Warman—"Git"!
Some often take Jessie and A. L. for sweet little sister and brother,
But no such ill luck for Jessie—s'pose ya try another!
Cooper Waters, th' ladies all say he will suit,
But James is very timid; he ought to be given the boot.
Ray and Georgia are sorta alike. You know we're meanin' no slam,
Both are okeh, but too reluctant to cram.

But a livelier feller is Izzy Wolfson.

Why are you so wistful, Harold,

Agnes Young is a sweet but shy lil' gal.

When the Coyote's Out This Spring

A full committee meetin', discussin' plans at ease—

Says one, "I'll tell you something, folks, if you'll listen, please.

I'm no great shakes as an editor; of that, I cannot brag.

Since we got the Coyote finished, my mind's a mental rag.

I have got a home, folks, a good one, you all know,

Where I don't have to hold no contests, nor stage no beauty show.

I'll hit the trail for home, folks, and not do a single thing,

'Cause I'm all worn an' weary gettin' the Coyote out this spring.

Next year I'll retire to college, 'cause there I won't have to be

Cuttin' up slips for contests and countin' faverts one-two-three;

But it's been heaps o' fun, and I don't mean to grouch

'Cause when it comes to workin', this committee's been no slouch.

This representative boy and girl . . . that's a game that's hard to beat.

The boy must be a manly lad and the girl both neat and sweet.

You remember, we had a committee, twelve good men and true,

To pass on qualifications and cut out the chosen two.

Their readin' an' 'ritin' an' 'rithmetic, these things all counted some;

Their tennis games, their time on the track, or catchin' balls on the run.

Their social graces we asked about, for it'd never do, you see,

To pick a representative out who didn't know how to drink tea.

To sit in judgment on studies, a teacher could do well;

To pass on a person's character, now that is hard to tell.

To measure out courage, loyalty, and courtesy and truth

Is a perty tough job in judgin' modern youth.

The popular faverts came easy, 'cause they were voted 'pon.

You orta seen the funny names that some kids put up to run:

Lindberg, Cantor, and Santy Claus, altho' 'twas against the rule,

That all contestants must be enrolled in Wichita Falls High School.

Then thirty beauties we must pick; it gave us all the blues.

There were so many pretty girls, we simply couldn't choose.

So in a quiet corner, near the cafeteria door,

Sat an artist scanning faces, he looked them o'er and o'er

To pick thirty beauties from a thousand pretty girls

Was enough to make his straight hair stand up in little curls.

Who would wear the beauty crown, you couldn't guess far wrong.

We knew 'twas the girl with the smile on her face and whose voice is like a song.

And now that the contests are over, and the days fond mem'ries bring,

We want you to know we enjoyed it, gettin' the Coyote out this spring.

Musical souls; hearts are free.
Sweet sounds are calling—
What shall it be?
A music club, you gaily guess,
That our inward urge we may express.
Harmonies and all sweet sounds
We pour them forth, roundels and rounds.
Within our ranks is a gay quartet;
Our tenor crooning soft and low,
Is joined by Ruth and Ruth, ditto.
But if our joys you wish to share,
Come join our club and go on the air.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

In nineteen-thirty there was sent to the wise
In Wichita Falls High School a charter to organize
A grandiose society of honor for those Whose brains were brainy, who never suppose
But possess the things that one should know.
Leadership, character, service—all go
With knowledge to make up a loyal pledge.
Hard work and good citizenship keep them on edge
As ever they look for others among us who stroll
In the upper circles, the aristocratic honor roll.
They work like Trojans to maintain their place
For Wichita High School, and as students to lead the race.

SPEAKERS' CLUB

Students who were taking public speaking this year
Were pleased when this club of speakers they did hear.
Their two main objectives, after they got organized,
Were to hear good speakers and themselves oratorize.
Now that's a good word, if it's not in the book,
I coined it, and I don't care how horrid you look.
In League work, in speaking, the members do shine.
They've won much distinction when they entered each time.
But surely some credit the sponsor must hear
For without her they wouldn't get along far, I fear.
They all are striving this nation to tell
That speaking must be done, and done well.

DEBATE

The fightin'est debaters you ever did see,
They debate somewhat loudly and fierce,
Are those called Barnett and Stimson,
Francys Krauss, and staid Marvin Pierce.

ESSAY

Keith Porterfield is the feller who writes;
In writing or talking he'll scale the heights.
We expect to hear of the great Southwest
Being told of in Keith's novel, his latest and best.

DECLAMATION

Ah! poise and grace, when other speakers are done,
We'll bring out two who'll show you, Witherspoon and Bone.
Emotion and force of expression in place in every line,
These two can carry an audience to the limit of their time.

EXTEMPORANEOUS SPEAKING

If ever two people could talk, it's Patton and Henry, I know.
They fascinate us with their knowledge and words that swiftly flow.

EL CIRCULO ESPANOL

El Circulo is the very club, no slurs upon the rest,
Which seems to tell one all about our charming old Southwest.
Most times on meeting days they chatter and they "habla Spanish";
For ought I know of Mexico, the play may be in Danish.
They learn the tales of the early days,
Of vaqueros and longhorns amid military ways.
And now they know much early Spanish history
And ancient Mexican ways that still are quite a mystery.
But present ways of life and love they want to know also,
For sponsors three, they have told me, have been in Mexico.
Now, finally, it seems to me, to sum up all their labors;
They learn about and strive to be much better southern neighbors.

GENS ROMANA

The Gens Romana of Wichita High are a herd that think not of satin;
They think not of hikes nor music nor art
But give their thoughts largely to Latin.
They learn of the days that the Romans played games,
Of songs that they knew, of gods they adored,
Of how they wore clothes and how they bore names.
For banquets and parties and plays they're renown,
As you know, they work hard for Miss Lona B. Brown.
Latin to them is a language to know if one would be mentally strong,
So hard they work and eager they are to travel both fast and far
They dig into Virgil and Caesar and always know just where they are.

HIGH SCHOOL ORCHESTRA

The orchestra has its part to play;
It brings us gladness and joy each day.
The members are a gleeful lot, you know;
Some play the flute, some the fiddle and bow.
Some are heard agonizin' on the saxophone,
While others seek to punish us with ye ole trombone.
Nowadays Miz Vaughan says it is a sin
If you say fiddle instead of violin.
But this bunch can play so long and loud,
No use to say, of them we're proud.
When we hear the echoes through the halls,
We're surely convinced it's the best in Wichita Falls.

HIGH SCHOOL BAND

For several years we've had a band,
At least they took up part of the stand,
But this year we had a sure 'nuff thing
That made us shout and laugh and sing.
At grandstand or rally it inspired the boys
To fight bravely on and furnish much noise;
Then "Star" with his flashing wand apart
Danced his way into our heart;
And I'd certainly not dare to leave
Without praising our marching mascot, Steve.
Just leave to them all to inject some pep
When we find that we can't quite keep in step.

BOYS' GLEE CLUB

High tenor, baritone, or profundo bass,
Each in the Boys' Glee Club has its place.
In mixed quartets they have a signal part;
For soloists there are, several with rare art.
They know the repartee for a French ditty
And can assist in dolly programs pretty.
To place in many contests they aspire;
Their poise in concert singing we admire.
By Parlow and Speaks they know pieces galore,
And even hit the anvils in Il Trovatore.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

In joyful song each day their voices blend;
A carol gay into the courts they send.
Sometimes they deal in love songs most divine,
And tender ditties like those on the valentine.
Sometimes they tend to sports and teams inspire;
Again they sing in sports in formal attire.
In groups they try for Tri-State prize at Amarillo;
In home, assembly some future stars sing solo—
To breathe, to hold the tone, to train the ear,
To entertain, just to amuse or cheer,
Singly, or in groups, they mean glee;
So to our noble Glee Club, praises be.

THE COYOTE STAFF

The high school annual is not just a manual;
 It endeavors a story to tell.
 Of things that we like and things we detest,
 The Coyote Staff has a burning zest
 To tell in the manner of the great Southwest.
 So they try to portray with brush and with pen
 A picture of school life for you. Then
 Adding a few bright sayings in picture and song,
 They've tried to put you just where you belong
 In this sad and bright story of battle and duty,
 Of herders and mavericks and mustangs and beauty.

THE WICHITAN STAFF

There's a high school publication
We always greet with approbation;
The scandal sheets cause consternation,
But for the paper there's admiration.
But only when you speak of conservation,
They seem to think it's imagination.
Now just you put this bunch on short probation
And watch out sharp for commendation.
And though you look about this nation,
You'll find none better in their station.

GIRL RESERVES

The Girl Reserves, six hundred strong,
Strive always to pass along
Joy and cheer to all they know,
Spreading sunshine as they go.
A merry band of girls to see
Sometimes full of frivolity,
But sometimes serious, sober, grave—
And how they make the boys behave!
They sing and laugh and work and play,
Making pleasure through the day—
Hoping that when comes the night
All their day will be aright.

GIRL RESERVES

Among their bits of service done
A Christmas tree ranks number one—
A feast and party and glistening tree
For those less fortunate, you see.
For Girl Reserves have a yearly plan
To do what charity they can.
To summer conference some will go—
If teas and shows will raise the 'dough'.
Committees work hard on finance
To give the delegates this chance.
All in all the year they fill
With service, fun, and all good will.

HI-Y

Developin' all the best in a man
Is the job of the Hi-Y, if they can.
To create and maintain the community through
High standards of living and character, too
Is their object in having a band right here
In high school. To us they're near—
The conference camp was at Ceta this year
And from this meeting they brought much cheer
And enthusiasm that they could hardly wait
To have their meeting here for this part of the state.
So really they're raising our standards of living;
We must not be selfish, but loving and giving.

ENGINEERS' CLUB

The Engineers' Club are a studious mob;
Science and math seem to be their hob.
You gotta be good and rate way up in G
Before the inner workings of this club you'll see.
They intend to be great engineers in this land,
Bringing in water and controlling the sand;
And when it comes to erecting a building so high,
You'll not find them lost, just bewilderingly shy.
They'll tell you the things that you ought to do
An' just about what it's gonna cost you, too.

It's a club that's trainin' cowboys sure as is a rule.
They skin the cat and fight and yell an' tackle me at school.
They run, they jump, they throw the ball
At net, at basket or nothin' a-tall.
An' the way they rassel is sure some treat,
Reminds me in a way of some ranger's feat.
'Tween football halves they do perform,
Causing the fans quite much alarm.

The girls in the Gym Leaders' Club always work
To lead all the girls, never to shirk

And as gentle as he, too, which I say is no minor
Thing to achieve and certainly no finer.
While others gum are chewing, these old gals are up and doin'
And if you think they've not a muscle jes' stop an' watch 'em tussle,

ART CLUB

The Art Club aims for rich appreciation true
Of painting and sculpture both old and new.
In meetings they discuss costume and design
And how to produce an effect with a line.
They talk of show cards and free lance work,
Of homes and windows where art should lurk.
They sketch each other, and daub and paint;
Sometimes they seem to be what they ain't;
But they do make toys, book-ends, hangin's, and things
That quite liven up this bit of the plains.
Some day, when the master scroll
Is made in art, these members will be on the roll.

ATHLETICS

BARRY HOLTON

Coach Barry Holton has taught our boys football, but he has done more than that. He has been always ready with a word of encouragement or advice which will help the boys later on in life.

CHARLES LINDSEY

Coach Lindsey, although he has been with us only one year, has proved to us his merit. Mr. Lindsey is constantly in a good humor and is always ready to help.

W. J. MORRIS

Bill Morris, the coach of the second string men, takes raw recruits and turns out experienced men in a short while. The success of a player depends on his early training received at the hands of Mr. Morris.

J. N. HALL

Mr. Hall has turned out some mighty fine track teams. Having been a track star at Howard Payne College, Coach Hall is more able to give the boys the proper training.

DAVIDA OLINGER

Miss Olinger, the girls' coach and gym instructor, has made able athletes of many of the girls. She instructs in volleyball, basketball, hockey, and baseball.

TOM McCARTY

Mr. McCarty coaches tennis and leads the band. It was largely through his efforts that the band was uniformed and furnished with music. Tom is always laughing and spreading his good cheer.

FOOTBALL

An unusually large number of boys reported for practice this season and gave promise of a fine team. Never before have so many come out for practice, and never before have we had such high hopes for a winning team as the present season. The team, of course, practiced out of doors when the weather permitted, but on bad days they went through rigid mental drills inside. On the practice field, the players sometimes practiced as a unit and sometimes divided into groups. One group would brush up on signals, and another would practice passing, etc. For hours at a time the coach would send men, one after another, down the field for passes. Some players spent an entire afternoon in kicking field goals and punts. The capable coaches were constantly on the watch for flaws and errors in the playing.

This year's squad was composed of many men who lettered for their last time. Among these were Bennett Withrow, Max Sepkovitch, J. R. Holton, Ed Greenwood and Malcolm Mauldin, shown in the picture above with other senior players; some of whom did not letter. The squad as a whole was one of the best ever seen in this school. They joked and played in the shower room, but worked and fought on the field of battle. The team contained several excellent players who were in high school for the first time and have two more years of high school football ahead of them. They are to be envied for this opportunity of showing up so early in their school career by those who play their last game this year.

max Septkovitch

Bennett Withrow, all-district halfback, played a great game of football this year. He will long be remembered for his playing ability and aggressiveness on the field.

Malcolm Maudlin, all-district guard, was one of the best guards that the Coyote team has ever turned out. Malcolm was a worker and a fighter.

Max Septkovitch, steady, hard tackler, and blocker, spilled many an enemy player. Ole "Coney Island Max" had no trouble handling his man.

Raymond Allen, one of the few letter men from last year, was indeed an asset to the team. His specialty was completed passes. What he did to Electra is history in W.F.H.S.

REVIEW OF THE SEASON

The football season of nineteen hundred and thirty-one was one of the best in Wichita Falls for a number of years. Intensive training began before school started in September. The football season found our players in A-1 condition because of training and correct diet and habits rendered them by Coach Holton. Our team was composed to a large extent of experienced men, and the fighting spirit was instilled in them by students and business leaders of the community.

Jasper McBride, small in size, but a giant in fight, was one of the most rigid trainers on the team. He was always ready to go in and boost the team.

Bill Reynolds was of great value to the team. Although he was injured and could do very little playing, he inspired the team with his helpful word and never dying spirit.

Bob Daugherty, a fighter with experience, was one of the best line plungers on the team. This fast and accurate lad was a regular half-back.

Le Roy McBride played his position well. LeRoy will be long remembered for his loyalty and earnestness. He had the real Coyote spirit.

PRELIMINARY GAMES

Our initial game of the season was played to a scoreless tie with Archer City. The score of the Olney game, which was played the next week-end, came out nothing to nothing. We were victorious over Temple and Bowie, the next two victims. The Coyotes advanced for the first time on enemy territory at Ardmore, Oklahoma. Having heard of the superior playing power of their Indians, we expected a more serious defeat than resulted. The score was 20 to 19. The fans who made the trip got home in time for breakfast, and a good time was had by all.

Harry Lucius

Harry Lucius, one of the main-stays on the left side of the line, came to us from Fort Worth. When his 210 pounds hit something it had to stop. Harry could be depended on to be in the middle of every pile-up.

J. C. Daniel was an essential man to the Coyote line-up. He was always working whether on the practice field or in the game.

Ed Greenwood, captain-elect for next year, could certainly pass and run. His grit in the game won him many friends. We have confidence in our captain next year.

J. R. Holton was one of the most consistent workers on the team. J. R. was a loyal trainer and a never-say-die fighter. The Coyotes lost a creditable player with the graduation of Holton.

CONFERENCE GAMES

Our first conference game was played at Childress. Although we won with a single touchdown, we were disheartened at the poor showing of the Coyotes. The field was dusty and the players were tired from their train ride; but, notwithstanding, the playing was slow and sluggish. Possibly the knowledge of an easy victory kept our team from showing what was in them, or the cider at Ardmore may have done it. Our first night game was played against the Polytechnic High School at the stadium in Fort Worth. The week of rain which preceded this game rendered it impossible for us to practice by artificial light at William Huff, a fighting tackle, was chuck full of courage. It was seldom that anything got by Bill; he played a fine game this year.

Bob Brandon, a last year letter man, was a steady player at the end position. When this man gets mad he can't be beat. Bob is a real fighter.

Malcolm Vordenbaum was one of the hardest workers we had on the team. A bad shoulder kept him out of several games, but when he did get in he made up for lost time.

R. G. Anderson, whose specialty was tackling, spilled many an enemy player on his side of the line. R. G. was small but plenty fast, and he was always in a jovial mood.

night. An entirely strange field and playing under the bright arc lights made the Pack feel out of place. The Polly Parrots had us licked from the beginning. We kicked off to our own twenty-yard line and stood in awe as the ball was caught and carried through the entire Coyote line-up. Although this touchdown didn't count, it had the same psychological effect on our players. However, we fought hard from the very first till the echo from the last gun had lost itself in the darkness.

We played Quanah on our own field the next week, and a marked improvement was noticed in our players. But they had not improved enough yet, as Quanah proved a little strong for us.

Burns McKinney, with his runs, made the Coyotes a most valuable man. He came to us from Zundy, and has a brilliant football career ahead of him.

H. R. Hanks was a most dependable blocker. H. R. gets his man. The Coyote team can always use a strong, fast player like Hanks to a good advantage.

Harry Shain, small but fast, stands high in this long list of fighters. Harry always did his best and it was good. We need more men with Shain's determination.

Jack Gentry will long be remembered for his defensive game and his accurate passing. "Shoe String Jack" could certainly hit hard and low.

Then Gainesville played us here, and this game gave us new hope. Our old enemy, Electra, was our next opponent. This game was one of the best and most interesting that we played during the year. The game with the Fort Worth High School was played on our field. This was a tough game against a tough team. The score remained pretty nearly even during the entire game. If the game had lasted another minute, we would have scored another goal, which would have made us victorious by nine points. But the game ended and we lost by a point. However, we were proud of this, because many schools refuse even to play the North Side. The final game of the season was

J. Z. Powell, small but mighty, was one of the best blockers on the team. The opposing team never knew what J.Z. would do next. Watch this lad next year.

Neville Howell, a capable and thoughtful manager, was always ready to help with the team and to send them forward with a cheery word.

Isadore Wolfson, ever ready and untiring, won the heart of the whole school with his loyal spirit, cheerfulness and helpfulness. He carried many a bottle of water on the field, and with every one went one of those little smiles of his which we know only too well.

played Thanksgiving Day with Vernon. A drizzling rain threw a dampness over the crowd and players, but more fans attended the game than ever before. Vernon won the game last year and threatened to win again. Well, she did.

BASKETBALL

Bob Brandon, the captain of this year's team, played forward. He was good at fancy shots and could send the ball to the basket from any position on the floor. Bob would often throw the ball over one shoulder or under his left arm for a goal.

Norvan Pressley was handicapped in that he was shorter than his fellow players. He moved about with a restless energy that generally put him at the same place as the ball.

Bob Decker was a guard; he has improved considerably over last year's work. Bob was a hard worker and steady player.

Thompson was the scrappiest guard we had. It was Thompson who snatched most of the balls that came off the back board.

REVIEW OF THE SEASON

The Coyotes played forty-eight games this season and were victorious in forty-three of the encounters. We met both Childress and Electra twice and won all these engagements. We bowed once to Petrolia and once to Union Valley, and then in the tournament we were beaten by Olney. Six Conference games were played and six were won. The team this year has had more hope and ambition than has any previous team. A large number of boys reporting at the first of the season started things off right and gave evidence of the fact that basket ball becomes more popular every year. Every afternoon during Reeves was our center. He was an excellent player and generally made his goals by tapping the ball in from directly beneath the basket. Reeves seldom got through a game without two or three fouls.

Orren Janeway was one of our guards. He took a great delight in snatching the ball out of his opponents' hands, and many an enemy player has been puzzled at not feeling the ball in his hands when he saw it coming straight to him.

Estes played forward. He was especially noted for his accurate shots from the side line to the basket or to another player's hands.

Ed Greenwood is another player who also shines at football. He is a hard worker at both.

practice there was an air of light-heartedness and good cheer, yet a feeling of confidence and determination pervaded the gym. The team this year was undoubtedly the best we have ever had. Most of the players gained valuable experience last year, as is shown by this year's result. Every player fought a little harder and shot a little truer than ever before. The boys have enjoyed being on this team and have not felt burdened with it. They have developed form and loyalty under the capable guidance of Barry Holton.

Only three teams in this part of the country succeeded in defeating the fighting Coyotes. The Benton Ross was the assistant manager of the basketball team this year. Benton was always ready in his capacity as manager. He always had a jersey ready for every player who came off the floor and was ready to catch the jersey of those who went in. His curly black hair shelters an active, understanding mind, and he knew how to sympathize with those who lost and how to praise those who won. The team in general profited greatly by having Benton around.

Isadore Wolfson was manager of the football as well as the basketball team. If any player ever felt down and out, a few minutes with Izzy and he was once again the happy sport he generally was. Izzy rendered his services as faithfully to basketball as he did to football.

Pack lost by a small margin to Union Valley, Oklahoma, but beat them severely in a return engagement. Petrolia proved to be a little better than the Coyotes. In the district meeting, Electra and Jacksboro suffered defeat at their hands, but the downfall came in the game with Olney—a hard, fast game. The season was by far the best in several years for both first and second string teams. The second string men played games among their teams with much interest. The first team won victories over the following teams: Electra, Childress, Henrietta, Bowie, Bomarton, Fairview, Cashion, and four games with Nocona—all in pre-district meet play.

OTHER SPORTS

-H-

Jimmy Williamson was a one-man track team. Williamson was without a doubt one of the best sprint men in Wichita Falls. He was known for his ability to run the 440-yard dash, the 100-yard dash, and the low hurdles. He was a good man to have on any team in any capacity.

W. D. Humble was the other lettering man. He was best known for the mile run, because of his long wind. Being especially well developed around the chest and shoulders, he could make the lap several times without tiring. Humble made two points for W. F. H. S. in the State Meet. Jimmy Williamson, making 18 points, was the high point man in the State Meet.

The Coyotes won all meets with the exception of that with Electra. The Coyote tracksters took second place in the district meet; they had a total of twenty points. Electra had a very few more points than we did in this meet. Both Williamson and Humble entered in the State meet, which was held at Austin. Williamson took fourth place in the 220-yard low hurdles. Leonard Saye was a very efficient manager; he was the third man to letter. Other tracksters who did not letter were Ed Campbell, Richard Smith, Martin Noly and Orien Janeway. Ed Campbell was best known for his dashes and Richard Smith for 440-yard dash.

Miss Olinger's volley ball team was of par excellence this year. The team included Captain Jean Worley, Thelma Dean Ross, Irma Cline, Frances Griffin, Lois Hubbard, Mary Beth Robinson, Arline Cook, Jessie Warren, Emma Smith, Christine Crozier, Isabelle Breaux, Rachel Bogue, La Vera Harrison, Merle Hammond and Virgie Mae Stearman. In previous years the volley ball team has not been of sufficient strength to enter competitive matches. For several years the teams in the various gym periods have held contests between themselves, but this is the first team in W. F. H. S. to play other schools. Some of the girls developed powerful swats and often sent the ball flying from one end of the gym to the other. We were entertained during an entire assembly period by the girls volley ball team. This sport more than any other gives every player an equal chance. No player has a given duty except to serve, and they all have an equal chance, at that. Many games were played during the season. We played Petrolia in the meet held here in February. Although Petrolia was victorious, we admired the spunk with which our girls fought.

Rufus King was the tennis champion of Wichita Falls. He not only met and conquered all comers, but he also entered the boys' doubles with H. R. Hanks. Rufus has many unusual shots which he developed before he started taking tennis seriously. His ability is by no means limited to tennis; he is an expert marksman with a shotgun, good swimmer, baseball player, and marble shooter. And, above all, he is a likable fellow.

H. R. Hanks, who, with Rufus, won the boys' doubles, is also a football player. H. R. can hit the balls hard and true to the back of the court or drop them easy just over the net. Both of these boys have the ability to make future tennis champions of themselves. Six tennis courts are kept up by the city on the school grounds. The Country Club has two courts. Did you know that Mr. Rider plays tennis? The snapshot above proves it; it was snapped one Sunday afternoon with the kind permission of the person shown therein. In fact, he posed for this exclusive photograph. Mr. Rider claims that he can hit the net every time. Tennis is quite popular, as it gives every player a chance to show his own ability. It is a beautiful sight to see a set of courts full of lively figures clad in white skirts and flannel trousers.

Betty Jane Sehmman is a tennis player of no mean ability, which ability is not limited to tennis playing, but extends to other forms of athletics as well. Having played tennis all her life, Betty is enabled by experience to cope with many situations which would baffle a novice at the game. One can tell by her style of play that she is anything but a novice. Every step, every move, every return of the ball tends to show that she is a master of the net game and queen of the court.

Irma Cline, not quite so experienced nor quite so assured, formed the other member of the doubles team. She could be seen practicing long before the tournament, perfecting her game from all angles. This has been her practice for several years, so she was not tired by the matches of the tournament. She has baffled many an opponent with the skill with which she strokes the ball, and it is not surprising to see the ball fly when Irma, to outward appearances, has tapped it lightly.

Dorothy Cline was the winner in the local tournament for singles player. If in a practice match or a title game, Dorothy put forth the best tennis of which she was capable. Instead of playing carelessly when there was nothing at stake, she watched and corrected the faults in her game. And, like the other successful players, she has won through by steady practice and hard work. Dorothy, like the doubles girls, did not get past the district meet, because opponents just played a little too well.

GOLF

Steve Powers has just finished unwinding for at least a hundred and sixty yards. We would expect a future golf champ of Steve if he could practice on Sunday. And who but Randolph McCauley would ever try to sink a putt with the flag in the cup? He probably knew it would be wasted energy to remove it. Our city boasts two exceptionally fine golf courses. There are practice greens and tees at both the clubs.

HOCKEY

Although this sport is not played with other schools, interesting competition is found among ourselves. Two snaps of the team in action are shown at the right.

GIRLS' FOOTBALL

Sham football is played by the girls during their gym period. Being off-sides and muddling is not at all unusual.

GYMNASIUM EXERCISES

The boys have muscle-rending exercises once or twice a week, play class basket ball frequently, and hold contests between different squads in each class. Some days are set aside for wrestling and some for mat and spring-board exercises. The girls learn various foreign folk dances and a few clogs. They, too, have stiff exercises, but they do not work out so strenuously as do the boys. On clear days both boys and girls have outdoor exercises.
